AGREEMENT ON PROJECT WITH TEXAS SOUGHT

Vernon Delegation Confers With Highway Commissioners of Oklahoma at Frederick on Replacement of Bridge Partially Burned Last Summer.

Three Vernon men, the only Texans in attendance at a conference with the Oklahoma Highway Commission at Frederick Friday night, were told by the commission chairman, Dr. W. E. Grisso of Seminole, that Oklahoma was "ready to go" in the construction of a new bridge across Red River between Oklahoma and Davidson, Okla.

Included in attendance at the conference were T. Edgar Johnson, president of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce; L. A. Wilson, secretary, and R. H. Coffey of this city; all members of the Oklahoma Highway Commission, and delegations from several Oklahoma towns. The Texas Highway Commission was not represented, although it had received an invitation in this connection.

Construction of a new concrete and steel bridge entirely across the river is favored by the Oklahoma Highway Commission, Grisso stated. If Texas will not agree to this proposal, the least Oklahoma would agree to would be the construction of a 1,500-foot section of the mile-long structure destroyed by fire last August, Chairman Grisso said.

Construction of the proposed 1,300-foot span would be done in anticipation of similar construction entirely across the river later, he added.

The Oklahoma Highway Commission has rejected a proposal by Texas engineers to make only temporary repairs by erecting a dirt fill.

Engineers of the two Highway Departments were to meet at the bridge site Saturday to consider further plans.

The Vernon Chamber of Commerce has not received a definite statement from the Texas Commission regarding its attitude on the proposal. A letter from Herbert Eldridge, acting bridge engineer of the Highway Department, said he "would recommend to the Highway Commission adequate installation."

The Vernon delegates pledged their support to the Oklahoma Highway Commission in its effort to secure a permanent type of construction across the river.

Members of the Oklahoma Highway Commission, all of whom were present, were Chairman Grisso, H. N. Arnold of Buffalo, Larkin Selmon of Walters, A. L. Commons of Miami and Van T. Moon of Tulsa. Mr. Moon is also the chief engineer of the Highway Department.

BROKER HELD IN DEATH OF HOLLYWOOD ACTRESS

Hollywood, Calif., Jan. 16. (AP)—Police jailed an investment broker on suspicion of negligent homicide Saturday after a hit-and-run motorist killed John Milner, stage veteran, and narrowly missed his actor-husband, Basil Rathbone.

Milner, 49, of whom 67 years were spent in theatrical prominence, died at the Receiving Hospital of his injuries Friday night without regaining consciousness.

Logan F. Metcalf, 45, who said he is the former husband of Madge Bellamy, film actress, surrendered at the police station after officers had telephoned him at his Manhattan Beach home.

Detective Lieutenant E. W. Smith said Metcalf admitted he had been in the vicinity of the accident but denied having hit Milner. The windshield of his automobile was broken, the detective said.

Milner and Rathbone were returning from a stroll in Griffith Park with Rathbone's pedigree dogs when tragedy struck.

Woman Tenses Appeal.
Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 16. (AP)—Mrs. Daisy Alexander Root, who shot and killed her husband following a quarrel over a Memphis night club "cigar girl," filed an appeal to the State Supreme Court Saturday from a second degree murder conviction carrying a 10-year penitentiary sentence. The court, however, recommended the Governor commute the sentence to one year for voluntary manslaughter.

Woman Held in Move To Get Nobel Award

Oslo, Norway, Jan. 16. (AP)—Police Saturday seized the passport of the "mystery woman" who attempted to collect the $37,000 Nobel peace prize awarded to the German pacifist, Karl Von Ossietzky.

The woman, supposedly a German, who gave the name of Mrs. Alexandra Kreutzberger, was confined to her hotel where she refused to see anyone.

She said she was secretary to a Dr. Kurt Wannon, of Berlin, and was acting at his instructions.

"I don't know Ossietzky or his wife personally and am only acting on orders," she declared.

A section of the Norwegian press charged her action was an attempt to seize the Nobel prize money.

POWER POLICY DEBATED AS CHANGES TALKED

Washington, Jan. 16. (AP)—New fuel for the governmental reorganization debate developed Saturday in authoritative reports the Administration is contemplating a body to fix national electric power policy, possibly under the proposed department of public works.

President Roosevelt was represented as desiring some method of reaching a clear-cut national policy in the power field but it is understood to have an open mind on the manner in which this should be done.

Significance was attached, however, to the grouping of "public works" in the permanent divisions of the Executive budget for the fiscal year 1938, headed by the Tennessee Valley Authority. Previously the authority has appeared as a separate budget item.

Evidence developed also that a showdown on policy and leadership in the Tennessee Valley project is swiftly coming to a head between Chairman Arthur E. Morgan and Director David Lilienthal.

The two long have been at odds on policy. A decision on policy in the Valley is a step toward a deeper crystallization of the Administration's policy on power.

On a power policy, the Administration is necessary soon because the contract whereby the authority supplies electricity to the commonwealth and Southern Power Company expires on Feb. 3.

Lilienthal, was pictured by his friends as opposing Chairman Morgan's known ideas for a long-range, slow developing policy to avoid duplication of lines in a finish fight with private utilities.

TENSION ON STRIKE FROM IN NATION EASES AS MOVE TOWARD CON TATION

(By The Associated Press)
A more conciliatory attitude on the part of both management and workers eased tension Saturday in the nation's major strikes, although the number of persons made idle by reason of labor disputes stood at upwards of 210,000.

Officials of the General Motors Corporation, with 17 plants strike-bound and 115,000 persons jobless as a result, faced leaders of the United Automobile Workers of America across a Detroit conference table to work out rules for negotiations beginning Monday.

Unionists began evacuation of factories which they had closed by means of "sit downs."

Ship owners who had 233 vessels tied up because of the 70-day Pacific Coast maritime walkout proposed to give members of seven striking unions another week to consider peace proposals, then call for a vote on acceptance.

Leaders of the Gas Employees Union called 300 workers off their jobs at the Ohio Fuel Gas Company and the Northwestern Ohio Natural Gas Company in Toledo Friday midnight because of unsatisfied demands for a signed contract.

A conference call bringing together unionists and Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company officials at Pittsburgh indicated a flat glass workers strike.

The situation in the west: Deadlocked disputes in the San Francisco bay area held 550 idle in a 64-day bag industry walkout; 2,500 out for the 60th day in three Bethlehem Steel Company shipyards; 688 machinists out 32 days; 168 cigar makers out 108 days; 108 auto holsters out 57 days; 110 battery workers out 89 days.

Germany sets limit on volunteers for Spain.

Berlin, Jan. 16. (AP)—Military and Nazi limit on volunteers to Spain was 25,000 men.

They disclosed each man already sent to fight with the Fascists, costing Germany $5 a day and that both military men and the prudent economic leadership of the Third Reich have sought to impress party leaders with the fact the money is needed at home.

Germany, these experts said, would not dare send more than 25,000 men to help Fascist General Francisco Franco and yet doubted that anywhere near that figure had been yet approached.

At the same time it was semi-officially stated Germany would answer the last British plea for non-intervention probably early next week, following the current Italo-German conversations in Rome.

STAMFORD MAN IS SPEAKER AT CROWELL DINNER

Crowell, Jan. 16. (AP)—Activities of an organization, "born during the depression" to conduct a wide variety of community work on a limited financial basis, were briefly reviewed Friday night at the annual banquet of the Farmers and Business Men's Association of Crowell. The program for the event featured an address on the importance of moral strength by Charles E. Combes of Stamford, former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The banquet was held in the basement of the First Methodist Church with more than 100 persons present.

For the benefit of out-of-town visitors, George D. Self, toastmaster, briefly reviewed the history of the unique organization, stating it was known to practically all people of Ford County as the "Horse Traders' Union." Any one willing to work for the betterment of his community may become a member by attending one of the organization's monthly banquets, Mr. Self explained. "There are no dues, but we have money in the bank and when we need some more, we'll put some of the horse traders' on a collecting campaign," Mr. Self stated. There are no paid executives and all work of the organization is done on a voluntary basis.

In the past year activities included the staging of a two-day celebration, April 27-28, in honor of the county's forty-fifth birthday; sponsorship of a series of trades days; successful efforts to secure improvement of the main roads and highways, and co-operation in many other forms of community service. Ford County's anniversary celebration, requiring work by every member of the organization, received State-wide recognition as one of the most successful Centennial events of the year.

Mr. Self said, president for 1937, and other officers chosen at the December banquet, were introduced. Retiring officers include A. W. Lilly, president, and J. H. Lanier, Jr., secretary-treasurer. Other officers this year are: Dwight Moody, vice president; H. E. Ferguson, secretary-treasurer; M. S. Henry, T. P. Reader, E. Swain, W. F. Kirkpatrick, O. W. Orr, and A. Y. Beverly, directors.

The program included vocal numbers by a duet composed of Mrs. A. F. Wright and Miss Doris Oswalt, a tan dance by Paula Plankett, and selections by a violin trio consisting of Mrs. Alva Spencer, Mrs. Foster Davis and Ebb Seales. Mrs. Arnold Rucker was accompanist at the piano for the vocal and violin numbers. Mrs. Frances Ricks was accompanist for the lap dance.

Rev. John W. Tyndal, pastor of the First Christian Church, introduced Mr. Combes.

The immediate need of a strong moral fibre in communities to put down lawlessness and carelessness living was emphasized by the speaker. "No community or nation has ever gone higher than the honesty of its men or the purity of its women," Mr. Combes stated. "I am not so concerned about getting out of a depression, if we are not already out of the last one, as I am about our manhood and womanhood," he added.

Included in the out-of-town visitors were the following from Vernon: Mrs. J. A. Huber, Martin L. Sharp, M. C. Culbertson and Mack Boswell.

SUSPECT HELD AT ARMY POST

CHECK ON FUGITIVE IS MADE IN SEARCH FOR
TACOMA KIDNAPER

Fort Williams, Me., Jan. 15. (AP)—Colonel Wilson Buritt, commandant at Fort Williams, said Saturday he was holding a 30-year-old self-styled army deserter, who, he said, had characteristics similar to those attributed to the kidnaper of Charles Mattson of Tacoma, Wash.

Colonel Buritt said the man surrendered to army officials Thursday night, claiming he had deserted from Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., last June. He was "drunk and sick," Buritt said, and during the normal army check-up his description and identifying characteristics were noted. He was unable to give a "convincing" story of his recent whereabouts, Buritt said.

The commandant said a description of the man was mailed to the War Department in Washington and he added he planned to contact army authorities by radio for further orders.

"His identifying marks were so peculiar and so much like what was broadcast about the man wanted in the Mattson case, he could possibly be a suspect," Col. Buritt said.

"The Mattson suspect is said to have walked with a limp. This man has lost the big toe and the next one to it on one foot," Buritt continued. "You know, no man can walk right if he has lost a big toe."

"Instead of giving himself up to police or going to some office on the post," Col. Buritt said, "he turned himself in at the guard house. That is rather unusual in such cases."

NEW YORK YOUTH HELD IN EXTORTION PLOT

New York, Jan. 15. (AP)—Austin Ryan, 16, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., was held without bail here for examination on Jan. 20, charged with suspicion of blackmail in a $10,000 kidnap-extortion plot.

The 16-year-old told police he had "read about the Mattson case out West" and thought he could "get away" with a ransom scheme.

The youth was in the police line-up after his arrest on a charge of sending fake ransom notes to Bert J. Young, of New Rochelle, N. Y., whose 15-year-old son, Robert, has been missing since Jan. 4.

Robert was a school-mate of young Ryan.

Ryan explained he had no part in any actual kidnaping of Robert. He said Robert told him, shortly before disappearing, that he was going to Cuba.

TWO SUSPECTS HELD IN TEXAS KIDNAPING

Fort Worth, Jan. 15. (AP)—Two ex-convicts arrested in separate raids here were identified as the men who kidnapped a Dallas automobile company employee and forced him to ride 700 miles in the rear of his own automobile.

The men drove over a wide section of South Texas before coming to Fort Worth Monday. They abandoned the car, called a taxi and departed. Agent Discusses Windows Thursday At South Vernon

"Through This Window I View the World" was the theme of a talk by Miss Doris Leggett, County Home Demonstration Agent, Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the South Vernon Club at the home of Mrs. Edd Pearcy.

"Kitchen windows should, of course, be clean and should be placed to give light advantages. They should be attractively curtained to give a home-like atmosphere," Miss Leggett stated. She displayed several pairs of kitchen curtains, the most attractive of which was made from a flour sack with alternating bands of green and orange print across the bottom. Another was made of dotted Swiss with six graduated bands of black and white stitched an inch apart above a three-inch hem.

Opening a short business session, Mrs. W. W. Mace presented the club gavel to the new president, Mrs. B. C. Richards, who spoke on her plans for the year and appointed standing committees. The various duties of these committees were outlined by Mrs. Paul Carrow, council delegate, followed with a discussion of the new year book by Mrs. B. L. Barker.

Enjoy Waterless Cookery With The Modern Electric Range

It reduces time of cooking... cost of operation... and, more important, preserves the health-giving value of foods

●Imagine cooking ten pounds of potatoes in only one cup of water. That is all it requires if you cook electrically. Fresh carrots, beans, peas and many other vegetables cooked on a modern electric range do not need to be drowned in a fathom of water to cook them tender—thoroughly.

●Waterless cookery gives you nutritious, full-flavored food with all of its vitamins and mineral elements preserved—not poured down the kitchen sink due to cooking in an excess amount of water.

●Enjoy waterless cookery in your own home on the most modern range in the history of civilization. Its amazing speed, cleanliness, safety and consistently better results have captured the imagination of West Texas women.

The cleanliness of the electric range has forever banished "hand-hiding" for hundreds of West Texas women—only one of the score of its modern features.

*"Hand-hiding" is a result of scouring blackened pots and pans.

ROADSIDE LIQUOR DISPENSARIES.

Sale of Intoxicants by Rural Dealers Creates Problem for Enforcement Agencies.

Mixing of the proverbially irreconcilable liquids, gasoline and alcohol, along innumerable highways and country roads presents the nation with a new problem.

Beer, wine, ale and whiskey are being sold in hitherto unknown quantities along with gasoline and oil to motorists as they stop at the numerous filling stations along the highway. Roadside lunch stands, restaurants, grocery stores, candy stores, tourist camps, soft drink stands and general stores are also numbered among the outlets for alcohol which are found in rural areas. This trend, only a few years old, toward the sale of alcohol in rural sections is spreading.

This new type of rural liquor vendor is usually, aside from the tavern type, the small business man who adds the sale of alcoholic beverages to his other wares as a means of making a few extra dollars. The answer to the problem of mixing gasoline and alcohol, however, lies outside the zone of competition and business and within the boundaries of provision for the welfare of the public. It is imperative that state governments place some curb on practices which facilitate the use at the same time of two such incompatible fluids.

GREATER CAUTION NEEDED.

Number of Airplane Accidents Recently Emphasizes Necessity for a New Slogan.

Recent airplane accidents have directed attention to the need of greater caution in the schedules over the western part of the country during the stormy months of Winter and Spring. So far as the cause of recent major accidents can be determined there were no mechanical failures or evidence of incompetence on the part of pilots. Pilots apparently lost their bearings momentarily on account of weather conditions and failed to make landing fields or to clear mountain peaks.

The air service has imitated the old pony express tradition that no matter what happens or what the conditions are the mail must go through. Such determination does credit to the courage of the men who operate planes but something more than courage is required in the operation of flying machines with precious cargoes of human freight. A much more intelligent slogan would be one that paramounts safety above all other considerations.

When flying conditions are hazardous the wise rule would be to keep planes out of the air, and there should be no difficulty in determining in advance whether the danger mark is indicated in the weather chart. Travel by air has passed the experimental stage and in spite of a number of tragic accidents in recent months there is no apparent falling off in patronage. This evidence of confidence in the essential soundness of air travel management should act as a spur to bring about the adoption of flying policies to match the mechanical development and the courage of the pilots.

MERELY TREATING SYMPTOMS.

Real Solution to Unemployment Is To Find Markets for Farm and Factory Products.

What to do with millions of people who remain unemployed in spite of improvement in business conditions and governmental aids is a question which no sensible person would attempt to answer offhand. We have various educational activities designed to fit many of them for useful work. We have recreational facilities to provide means of expressing the play instinct in order to avoid some of the temptations that come with absolute idleness.

Closely related to this problem is the farm tenant situation. At the present time the Government is making an effort to discover some means of reducing the number of tenants as well as to improve the conditions under which they live. Farm homes on long terms at very nominal interest charges are being offered to selected tenants.

But after three years of intensive planning these problems remain with us in such acute form as to cast a doubt over any promise to find a permanent solution by methods thus far made public. There is reason to suspect that we have been treating the symptoms rather than the disease. There is a reason for people being out of work and there is a cause for the ills of farm tenantry.

The real cause, of course, is low earning power and lack of means for profitable employment. Unfortunately, corrective measures have not attacked the main cause. The only way to effect a permanent cure is to create a market for products of labor, on the farm as well as elsewhere. It is obvious that our policy of economic nationalism is hopeless. The only way to remove the causes of unemployment, of which farm tenantry is merely a part, is to find markets for American products in sufficient quantities to put people back to work in order to meet the demand.

MANY CHANGES IN INAUGURAL

CONTRASTS IN PLANS FOR ANDREW JACKSON AND ROOSEVELT GIVEN

Washington, Jan. 16. (AP)—President Roosevelt's wish for a simple inauguration has shortened the official program for next Wednesday but even so he will be the center of formalities not dreamed of by his early predecessors.

For several weeks workmen have been building a reproduction of the facade of "The Hermitage," Andrew Jackson's Tennessee homeplace, before the White House. In the platform thus provided the President will review the inauguration parade after having taken the oath of office for his second term at the Capitol.

It will be the same oath "Old Hickory" took 108 years ago and the manner of swearing it will be unchanged but only the fundamental traditions of inauguration as he knew it have retained for modern times.

When Jackson took office Washington was a very small city. "Old Hickory" strode to the Capitol on foot, his white head bare to the March chill and the applause of the multitude.

Traveling to and from the Capitol by automobile, Roosevelt will move in a guard of Secret Service men. Administration of the oath will be carefully pre-arranged, despite the simplicity with which it is carried out. The whole Nation will listen in.

Jackson's inauguration was followed by a party at which gallons of ice cream and orange punch were consumed. Roosevelt, in line with his wish for simplicity, will have no inauguration ball.

MRS. JOHN BARRYMORE FILES DIVORCE ACTION

Los Angeles, Jan. 16. (AP)—Elaine Barrie, the fourth Mrs. John Barrymore, yearned for single blessedness Saturday, accusing the film star of "extreme mental cruelty and inhuman conduct" during their marriage of two months.

Romantic sentiments were missing from a sensational complaint in which the 21-year-old New York beauty asked a Los Angeles court to divorce her from the 54-year-old actor she flew across the continent to marry at Yuma, Ariz., last Nov. 9.

Her complaint set forth she is without funds, so she asked for "reasonable alimony." Moreover, she requested Barrymore be required to pay $10,000 attorney's fees and $1,500 court costs out of his earnings, which she estimated in excess of $3,000 weekly.

Barrymore, at the home of his friend and trainer, Ken Kelly, where he has stayed the past two weeks, declined to comment.

RAIL AGENT INTERESTED IN LIVE STOCK AUCTION

Expressing surprise at the large volume of business transacted at the Vernon Live Stock Sales Commission, Joe S. Dalton of Fort Worth, livestock agent for the Missouri Pacific Lines, said Friday he intended to attend the weekly livestock sales here in the future in an attempt to route some of the shipments to the North and Northeast over his company's lines.

"I had no idea I would find so large a livestock market at Vernon," Mr. Dalton said. "The market here is as good as any in the Southwest."

The sale this week was held Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It was announced by St. Thompson, president and manager of the company, that sales will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the future as the volume of business cannot be transacted during the two-day sales which have been held in the apt.

GRAND JURY FAILS TO REPORT IN BLANTON CASE

Raymondville, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—A Willey County grand jury which reportedly investigated the disappearance of Luther and John Blanton on the former King ranch near their San Perita home in November, recessed Friday without making a report.

Judge George C. Westervelt charged the jury to investigate the case and that of Jesus Rivera and Reyes Ramirez, who disappeared previously under similar circumstances. He said he would name a secret committee to continue the investigation if the jury failed to complete its work in three weeks.

REVOLVING FUND FOR AGRICULTURE PUSHED

Washington, Jan. 15. (AP)—The House Agricultural committee has recommended the enactment of a bill establishing a permanent $50,000,000 revolving fund for farm crop production and feed loans.

The bill, offered by Chairman Jones of Democratic Texas, would permit farmers lacking credit elsewhere to borrow up to $400 annually. Previous loan acts provided $200.

A measure similar to Jones' was passed the last Congress but was vetoed by President Roosevelt.

NEW ENGLAND FLOWERS BLOOM AS WARM WEATHER CONTINUES

New York, Jan. 16. (AP)—In a world where Scotland gradually is moving toward Ireland and snow falls at San Pedro, Calif., the eastern seaboard kept in step today by exhibiting a full acre of pansies in full bloom in January.

At least six weeks of abnormally warm weather, punctuated by not one good snowfall, have brought signs of a premature Spring up and down the coast. Even New England, normally well blanketed with snow long prior to mid-January, has had to revise its calendar.

Crocuses and lilacs bloomed almost everywhere in the metropolitan district of New York, and robins, bluebirds and at least one Maryland yellowthroat sang from the leafless branches of trees.

The pansies bloomed on a farm in Clifton, N. J.

At St. Johnsbury, Vt., the warm weather has started sap flowing in maple trees.

HOUSTON MAN IS TAKEN FROM TRAIN TO HOSPITAL

J. O. Jackson of Houston was suddenly stricken with a severe attack of influenza Friday afternoon as he was preparing to leave Vernon after attending a meeting of employees of the United Gas Company here.

Mr. Jackson was stricken while preparing to return to Houston with a group of other employees. He was taken from the train and carried to a Vernon hospital in an ambulance from the Frost and Laxton Mortuary. His condition was reported by hospital attaches as satisfactory.

SEAMEN'S CERTIFICATES TO BE EFFECTIVE NEXT MONTH

Washington, Jan. 16. (AP)—Commerce Department extended Friday until February 20 the effective date of new "certificates of service and efficiency" to be issued to seamen under provisions of the Maritime Act.

These certificates, which will be issued to qualified seamen, originally were scheduled to go into effect December 26.

The dead line was extended to January 20 and J. Monroe Johnson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, ordered the further delay because, he said, the department needed additional time to prepare the certificates.

"Continuous discharge books," in which the seaman's ship service is to be recorded, are now being issued. These books have been protested by organized seamen on the ground they will enable ship masters to "black-list" union members.

"MALICIOUS PROSECUTION" CHARGED IN MEISNER SUIT

Toronto, Jan. 15. (AP)—David Meisner of Covington, Ky., acquitted last March of the alleged kidnapping of John Labatt, London, Ont., brewer, filed suit against Labatt Friday for malicious prosecution and negligence in identification.

Meisner was acquitted at a second trial, which was ordered by the Minister of Justice after the Kentuckian had begun a 15-year penitentiary sentence on conviction of the kidnapping at a previous trial.

The new trial was ordered because Michael McCordell, now serving a 12-year term, made a confession absolving Meisner of any connection with the kidnapping.

QUESTIONS ON JOBLESS AID ANSWERED

Editor's Note:—Following are questions and answers prepared by R. B. Anderson, chairman-director of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, which is an interpretation in simplified terms of the various provisions of the recently-enacted Texas Unemployment Compensation Act.

Further questions and answers in this series will appear in The Record from time to time.

How to Figure Your Weekly Wage.

Question 6: "My work is irregular or seasonal. Some weeks I work more hours, earn more pay, than in others. Previous articles have made it clear that to determine what benefits I can receive, I must know what my wage has been. Does the law say how the amount of my wages is to be determined?"

Answer: To determine your weekly wage, you must find out two things:

(1) Your full-time weekly wage. To get this figure, add together all the hours you worked in all the weeks in the last 52 weeks in which you were employed 30 hours or more. Example: In the last 52 weeks, you worked 25 hours a week for 5 weeks, 28 hours a week for 10 weeks, 22 hours a week for 9 weeks, 30 hours a week for 2 weeks, 24 hours a week for 5 weeks, and 48 hours a week for two weeks.

Since you failed to work 30 hours a week during the first 24 of these weeks, disregard them. During the remaining 28 weeks you worked a total of 595 hours, or an average of 32 hours a week. Therefore, 32 is your full-time weekly wage.

(2) Your Hourly Rate of Earnings. To get this figure, you consider only the thirteen weeks just before you became unemployed.

Out of these thirteen weeks, take those in which you worked full-time. Add together the total hours worked in these weeks.

In the example used above, these 13 weeks should include: 2 weeks at 48 hours, 5 weeks at 24 hours, and 6 weeks at 30 hours.

So out of the 13 weeks you would count only seven—the two at 48 hours and the 5 at 24 hours, because only in these weeks did you work your full-time weekly wage.

Now, in these seven weeks, say you made a total of $106.40. Divide this amount by the number of hours you worked in these seven weeks, or 206. This will give you the figure of 40 cents an hour.

This is your Hourly Rate of Pay. After you have gotten (1) your full-time weekly wage, and (2) your hourly rate of pay, multiply the hours (1) by the rate (2). This will give you $12.80.

This is your full-time weekly wage which will be used in determining the amount of compensation.

What About Irregular Workers?

Question 7: "Your last article told how I could determine my weekly wage for the purposes of the Unemployment Compensation Act; but this example does not fit me. My work's hour seldom averages 30 hours a week. How am I to proceed?"

Answer: To try to be fair to every worker, the Commission has been given the power to vary from the above formula, either in determining the hourly rate of earnings, or both.

Suppose your previous employment record is not long enough to fit this formula. What then? The Commission has the power to find out for itself what the customary pay is for your kind of job.

The aim of the law is to be fair to every worker. The formula was worked out carefully to fit the majority of cases. But there always are exceptions, and each exception will be treated fairly by the Commission itself.

If you have any questions concerning the operation of this law as it affects employers or workers, you can have your questions answered by writing to R. B. Anderson, chairman, Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, Austin.

RALPH GULDAHL SETS PACE IN OAKLAND GOLF MEET

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 16. (AP)—Four strokes under par and a shot ahead of his closest rival, tall Ralph Gulda of Chicago paced the field Saturday as the professional golfing seagulls set off in the second round of the 72 hole $5,000 Oakland Open.

The lanky shot master, who in past years has caused automobile selling in St. Louis with a cashing par on the links, continued the brilliant golf which has won him two tournaments this Winter to post a 64, on rain-soaked Claremont course in Friday's opening round. Par for the 5,737-yard treacherously-trapped links is 24-51—68.

EDDIE FOSTER SUCCEUMBS TO INJURIES IN CRASH

Washington, Jan. 16. (AP)—Eddie Foster, famous "hit and run" third baseman of the Washington baseball team from 1912 to 1919, died Friday night of injuries suffered in an automobile accident. He was 50 years old.

His car crashed through a sign-board on Jan. 7, and Foster was found lying beside the road. The cause of the accident has not been determined.

Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington club, who called Foster the all-time Washington third baseman, said Saturday, "he was unquestionably one of the greatest of his time."

"TO PROGRESS"

WILBARGER LIVESTOCK IS SHIPPED TO SOUTHEAST

Fifteen carloads of livestock were to be shipped Saturday to Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Louisiana and Arkansas from the Vernon Live Stock Sales Commission.

A strong demand and good prices were reported at Friday's sale at the commission company's auction ring on North Cumberland Street by St. Thompson, president and manager of the company. Buyers from many sections of Texas as well as other States were reported in the market for mules.

The demand for cattle, hogs and horses was also good, according to Mr. Thompson.

Patty Berg Leads.

Augusta, Ga., Jan. 16. (AP)—Three women shared the lead Saturday in the second round of the Augusta Titleholders' Golf Meet but par—the rain—still held the field. Patty Berg, Minneapolis schoolgirl, justified her favorite's rating by firing a steady 40-40 for a one-over-par 80 in the first round Friday of the 54-hole medal test.

with Ardath, meets the vacuous COUNTESS DI MARCO, the American playboy REGGIE VAN TWYNE and MRS. VAN TWYNE. The evening wears on. Suddenly Mrs. Van Twyne, incriminated, needs her gown over her head and begins a fawn dance.

Someone tugs at Paul's elbow. A voice says, "Well, was it such a bargain—giving up a throne for . . . this?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional and imaginary and are not intended to portray any actual persons or events.

CHAPTER IV Paul spun about. There stood a short man in a tuxedo suit—a short man, profoundly tanned, with a little gray goatee, and with dark eyes that looked out of a network of fine wrinkles.

"Dr. Sonders!" said Paul. "Wherever did I come from, and how did I get here?" said the little man, shaking the hand which Paul thrust at him. "I'm on my way back to BEGIN HERE TODAY."

PAUL I. King of Northumbria, becomes private citizen PAUL PERKINS when he abdicates for the love of ARDATH RICHMOND, Canadian-born actress. Paul's younger brother, JOSEPH, succeeds to the kingship.

With calm finality, Paul signs the formal abdication documents and then flies away to marry Ardath. They choose a charming villa on the Bay of St. Francis. Paul revels in his new freedom. He is deliciously happy with his bride. And then one day he walks into the nearby village of San Lorenzo and finds he is not free at all—the eyes of the curious, peasants, the whole world, are on him, prying. He flees humiliated sick at heart.

Nights later he visits a casino the diggers in Guatemala. Stopped off to see the Marquis de Saule and try to get a contribution out of him. He brought me over here. And meanwhile, what about answering my question?"

Dr. Sonders was looking up quizzically. He had been Paul's tutor, or one of them, back in university days. Now he was one of the world's most famous archeologists. He was an outspoken, sarcastic little man, awed by no one and impressed by nothing.

"Your question?" said Paul blankly.

"Yes, I asked you"—Dr. Sonders waived his hand vaguely at the chattering crowd—"if it was a god bargain, to exchange a throne for this?"

Paul looked at him. The air was hazy with tobacco smoke, heavy with that and with perfume, powder and the infinitely mixed aroma from the bar. People were beginning to look flushed and disheveled.

Their voices were louder than need be, their laughter was a little shrill. "Let's go outside in the air," said Paul. He guided the little scientist out to the veranda and found a little table by the railing. Out in the bay gleamed the lights of a cruise ship and at anchor. The two men sat down and Dr. Sonders subjected Paul to a careful scrutiny.

"You needn't answer the question," said Dr. Sonders. "After all, there's only one answer you could possibly make."

"But it wasn't a fair question," objected Paul. "After all, Doctor, I didn't exchange my throne for—"

"No? What did you exchange it for?"

"I didn't 'exchange' it for anything, strictly speaking. But if you must make a bargain out of it, let's say I exchanged it for—life, for freedom, for the chance to realize whatever potentialities I have for living."

"Hmhm. And all of this is life, freedom and the chance to realize your God-given potentialities?"

Paul colored. His old tutor could always make him feel like a stammering schoolboy who had scamped his lessons.

"That isn't fair, either, Doctor," he said. "You take one night at a frivolous night resort and make it stand for a whole career."

Dr. Sonders shook his head and thrust his goatee forward aggressively.

"Paul, Paul, it isn't just one night. I read the papers, my boy!"

"The papers?"

"Surely. You don't suppose that the people of Northumbria are left in ignorance of the way in which you are spending your time, do you? They get all the details—including, doubtless, some that are quite imaginary. But unless there is a great deal more of imagination in these accounts than I have ever known our newspapers to be guilty of, this night is a pretty fair sample, after all."

"I don't mean," he went on, raising a hand as Paul opened his lips to protest, "if you mean that there's anything so terribly bad or abandoned about this crowd here tonight. There's no harm in them . . . not in most of them, anyhow. But Paul, Paul—I do hate to see pearls cast before swine."

"Meaning?"

"Meaning this."

The doctor stroked his goatee and looked out over the bay at the lights of the cruise ship.

"Paul, I had a king. He was a fine young man, tall and handsome as a king should be, and he had a keen mind and a warm heart and his soul was clean. He sat in a high place and he was like a beacon and a symbol to millions of this earth's tired people. To those who needed an ideal he was a shining example of the simple decent goodness that humanity now and then is capable of; to those who were oppressed and beaten, he was the symbol of that help and that justice which men must believe in if they are to live.

"To these millions, Paul, that king was not an abstraction, and the throne he sat on was not merely a convenient figment of government. He was real and his throne was real, and together they meant much."

The doctor paused and stopped stroking his goatee. His eyes looked out from the wrinkles that had put about them, and they looked old and tired.

"I had a king, Paul, and he deserted me," he went on at last. "He left me because, as king, he might not marry the woman he loved. No, don't interrupt me, Paul. I know that the traditions, the prejudices and the laws which kept the empire of Northumbria from admitting an actress to its throne as queen are narrow and stupid. It was not fair or just, at all. But a king is a king to stand unfairly and justly—yes, and loneliness and doubt and unhappiness too, if he needs be."

Again he paused.

"That part is as it may be," he said at last. "The decision was his to make, and—knowing him as I do—I am sure that he did not make it lightly. It is what comes after the decision that worries me now."

"For my king, Paul, did not give up his responsibility when he gave up his throne. He could not give that up, and he never can as long as he may live. For when he gave up his throne, he said, in effect, 'There is a thing for me to do which is so important that it counts for more even than the throne of an empire. I must be away and do it at whatever cost.'"

"So he went away to do it—and what did he do? He went to the pleasure coast and let himself be the magnet and the lodestar for the frivolous, the bored and the uselessly rich of two continents. If he were preparing for some great task it would be different; if he were preparing for nothing more than a quietly useful life as a Canadian wheat rancher, say, it would be different."

"But as it is—Paul, what are these people worth? They are worth an empire! Must you give them a king to play with?"

His eyes sought Paul's and found them, held them, bored relentlessly into the soul of the man who had once been monarch.

"But the time is so short," protested Paul at length. "After all, Doctor, it has only been six weeks since my abdication. What can I do, at this time? If I go out anywhere there are tourists and newspaper people and all sorts of idly curious gawkers to cluster around me. I almost fall over them. Can't I at least wait here until that sort of thing dies down a bit?"

"It will never die down," said the archeologist. "You will carry around with you the king you used to be, for the rest of your life. He will stand at your elbow wherever you go, and you will see his reflection in people's eyes to the end of your life."

Paul folded his arms on the little table and stared out over the dark bay. He had given his respect and love to this odd little scholar in his youthful, formative years; now he could only listen as the man talked, and feel miserably guilty. There was a long silence. At last Paul leaned forward and looked earnestly at the piercing eyes in the bronzed and wrinkled face.

"Grant that everything you say is true," he said. "What am I to do? My abdication is over and done with. I couldn't withdraw that even if I wanted to. What am I to do?"

"You paid a tremendous price for your freedom," said Dr. Sonders. "To make a good bargain out of it, you must make that freedom worth a tremendous lot to you. You must justify it—not so much by what you do, for you have given up your chance for doing, but by what you are."

"Freedom in itself means nothing. The poorest beggar on the highway has it. What are you going to do with it? Are you going to drift your life away here, a bored and useless idler? Or are you going to be what you were born to be, a king among men, a prince in the great kingdom of free minds?"

The doctor looked at him sadly. "I will tell you something," he said abruptly. "Your brother Joseph is on the throne of Northumbria now. You know Joseph—young, intense, serious, idealistic. His people are learning to love him. And already it is being said—in newspapers, magazines and so on—that his accession has changed the moral tone of the kingdom. It is being said that there is a revival of the homely old virtues because of the change in kings."

"Are you going to let that be your epitaph—the fact that your kingdom was made the better by your departure?"

Again he paused. Then he burst out:

"Get away from this! Put your mind to work, live with everything there is in you. If you can think of nothing better to do, come out to Guatemala and help me dig into the ruins of buried cities and lost civilizations, so that when you come to die you can at least know that you left the race a little wiser than you found it. Do that, do anything—but don't drift. For the sake of what you might be, Paul, don't become the prisoner of your lost crown and your own freedom!"

The doctor got up and laid one hand gently on Paul's shoulder. His attitude suddenly changed.

"Write to me, my boy," he said. "I loved my young king. I still love him. There are millions like me, all over the globe. Don't let us down. For us, there will always be a crown on your head. Be worthy of it!"

He gave the young man's shoulder a final squeeze, turned quickly, and was gone.

Machines, men and money form a productive partnership which creates prosperity in industry, agriculture and business.

One of the major functions of a bank is to help money play its part at every stage of enterprise: by extending loans for equipment and plant improvement—by providing cash to meet pay rolls, or to purchase supplies, to facilitate livestock and crop production and transportation—and by safeguarding the deposits of both management and workers.

OLNEY CUBS DEFEAT LIONS

VERNON CAGERS LOSE BY SCORE OF 30-22 IN ROUGH CONTEST

Olney, Jan. 16.—The Olney Cubs took a 30 to 22 victory over the Vernon Lions here Friday night in a basketball game in which called and uncalled fouls were numerous.

The Cubs, taller and with more experience than their opponents from Vernon, were one point behind at the end of the first quarter with the score Vernon 5 and Olney 4. At the half the Young County cagers had tied the score at 10 all and, scoring 12 points to five for the Lions in the third quarter, the rangy Olney quintet took the lead and held it in the last half.

The Lions, most of whom had little or no experience on a basketball court before the current season, were less erratic in their goal shooting than in previous games but were unable to stop the combination foot-ball-prize ring attack of their opponents.

Wilson of Olney was high point man for the game with 11 points. Mark Belew, Lion forward, trailed him with nine.

The Lions moved to Graham today for a game with the Steers tonight. Coach Gilmore predicted a close game, with the Vernon cagers having a good chance to end up on the long end of the score.

The box score:

YEAR'S BOXING GAINS TALKED

By EDWARD C. FOSTER (Executive Secretary, the National Boxing Association)

Providence, R. I., Jan. 16. (AP)—It seems impossible to say anything about boxing during 1936 without mentioning the greatest upset of the year, the defeat of Joe Louis by Max Schmeling.

Personally, I believe it was a great thing for boxing because it has people had been led to believe that Louis was invincible. Schmeling's victory proved this sport was on the level and endeavoring to produce the best men in the various classes.

Boxing is increasing in favor all over the country. It certainly seems to have earned this increased patronage, for I believe the boxers and their handlers are doing a much better job than they have in the past three or four years.

I mean the boys are well matched and in almost every instance are giving to the best of their ability.

The National Boxing Association, with its 36 member states, is earnestly working now on a plan to alleviate some of the tribulations of old, broken-down boxers. It is planned to organize a fund to be earmarked for indigent boxers. We believe boxing fans all over the country would be willing to stand perhaps a one-cent tax on each ticket to go toward this fund. However, no really definite plan has been adopted.

The heavyweight division is certainly in a chaotic condition. There is no reason in the world why Jim Braddock should not have been compelled to defend his title within the year after he won that title, or declare publicly it was impossible for him, owing to physical disability, to continue as champion.

However, there seems to be a rainbow in the sky, and 1937 no doubt will see the heavyweight division represented by a champion who not only is capable but willing to defend his title.

WEST VERNON TAKES GAME

HARROLD HORNETS LOSE BASKETBALL CONTEST BY 28 TO 11

The West Vernon basketball team took a 9 to 2 lead in the first quarter of their game Friday night with the Harrold Hornets and went on to win, 28 to 11.

The Hornets, for years among the best in basketball in this section, are both young and inexperienced this season. Coach T. H. Wilson was not deheartened over the showing made by his boys, however, stating that the Hornets would be back at the top of Wilbarger cage competition by next year.

Saxon Judd of the West Vernon quintet led the scorers with 12 points. Giddens and J. Judd, both of West Vernon, were next with eight points each.

The box score:

S. M. U. CAGERS STOP PORKERS

Dallas, Jan. 16. (AP)—Southern Methodist's surprising basketball team upset Arkansas' towering Razorbacks, 29 to 25, Friday night to retain the Southwest Conference leadership.

BOBCATS WIN FROM INDIANS

Childress, Jan. 16.—The Childress Bobcats took a wide lead from the Quannah Indians in the last period of their basketball game here, Friday night, to win, 25-19. The game was a close contest until the last quarter when Childress staged a scoring spree.

COYOTES LOSE TO WILDCATS

Crowell, Jan. 16.—The Crowell Wildcats maintained their top position in the Northwest Texas Basketball Conference here Friday night by defeating the Wichita Falls Coyotes, 38 to 21. The contest was the second in the conference for Crowell and the first for the Coyotes.

The score at the half stood 12-10 in the Bobcats' favor and the last quarter found it nearly tied at 17-16 with Childress leading. The last minute offensive netted Childress 9 points.

Booth, Childress forward, was high-point man for the game with six goals and three tosses for 15 points.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 16. (AP)—Ellsworth Vines, National professional tennis champion, shuffled along to Detroit Saturday with a double victory safely tucked away—he licked a cold, then trounced Fred Perry, former amateur king, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1.

Three times before he bowed to Perry in matches at New York, Cleveland and Chicago. Then he went to a Chicago hospital, stayed in bed for six days and licked the cold.

He went into Friday night's match back in top form and except for the second set displayed marked superiority, pilning up points seemingly with little effort.

Perry had said before the match Vines' illness "certainly put me in a hole." He explained: "If I won I did so because Vines wasn't at top form; if I lost fans could say that Vines, even though off his game, could beat me."
